

MEGA Sportswear

With the incidence of skin cancer on the rise, some sports companies allude to the protective qualities of their clothing but offer little validation. MEGA AUSTRALIA designs lightweight, fashionable sports clothes which are 97.5% resistant to the sun's harmful UV rays. Now available online and at selected retail outlets, MEGA AUSTRALIA clothing is tested by leading independent German company, TÜVRheinland. Both its mens and womens summer and winter ranges have an ultraviolet protection factor (UPF) of 50+. It is the highest UPF rating available for clothing and ensures excellent protection against the damaging Aussie sun.

"MEGA's chinos are so comfortable, I always wear them when I am going out with my friends as well as when I am playing golf," says brand ambassador Alex Katholos, a 22-year-old up-and-coming professional.

Made from cool cotton and microfibre, MEGA AUSTRALIA clothes have a light, barely there feel. With a unique compression stretch and fast drying absorption, they offer maximum comfort and support during exercise. Designed in Japan, where it is a market leader, MEGA AUSTRALIA sportswear comes in a variety of colours and styles including t-shirts, polo shirts, jogging pants and turtle necks.
